It is necessary for every discipline to take stock of its own current state every 20-30 years. Such review helps determine the discipline's path and tasks for the coming decades, and it also facilitates reflection upon the changes and challenges of the scientific and non-scientific world around it. For this purpose, the Committee of Ethnography of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences organized a series of conferences on the current state and the future of ethnography between 2018 and 2020. Those papers of international interest have been translated and are presented in this volume. The first section discusses the dilemmas of ethnography/ethnology as an independent discipline. Articles in the second section provide a fresh perspective on the intrinsic interrelatedness of agriculture, livelihood, environmental perception, and traditional ecological knowledge studied by Hungarian ethnographers. The subsequent section scrutinizes research into and management of cultural heritage in Hungary and the role of ethnographic scholarship in safeguarding intangible heritage. The volume closes with insightful case studies on when ethnographic situations/experiences can be translated into meaningful social actions. Surface Plasmon Resonance (SPR) is a biophysical technique that is able to measure molecular binding interactions in real time. Utilizing a Biacore 8K SPR instrument and Insight Evaluation Software (GE Healthcare), it is possible to analyze the dynamics of the molecular interactions between small molecule inhibitors to protein arginine methyltransferase-5 (PRMT5); an enzyme responsible for the symmetric dimethylation of arginine residues of both histone and non-histone proteins. PRMT5 has been implicated in a wide variety of cancers including ovarian, lung, and lymphoid cancers. Studies have also linked the overexpression of PRMT5 with poorer prognosis and survival. PRMT5's methyltransferase function has attracted interest in developing selective inhibitors targeting the SAM-binding pocket and the substrate-binding pocket of PRMT5 in developing drugs to treat certain cancers. Reaction Biology Corp. has produced three small molecule inhibitors, VY-5-173, VY-5-177, and VY-5-178, designed to target the substrate-binding pocket of PRMT5 in developing proteolysis-targeting chimeras (PROTACs) molecules. PROTACs are an emerging platform that mediates the selective degradation of target proteins. In this work, the binding behaviors and kinetics of VY-5-173, VY-5-177, and VY-5-178 were compared to known small molecule inhibitors, EPZ015666, LLY-283, and JNJ-64619178, against PRMT5 using distinct binding modes in four different conditions. Measurements were conducted on the Biacore 8K in the absence and presence of cofactors MTA, SAH, and SAM to probe for competition and/or cooperativity that would provide insight into the binding modes of the small molecule inhibitors. Based on the SPR data, VY-5-173, VY-5-177, and VY-5-178 bind preferentially to cofactor bound PRMT5 with a difference of 100-fold: low- micromolar KD in MTA-bound PRMT5, mid-nanomolar KD in SAH-bound PRMT5, and high-picomolar KD in SAM-bound PRMT5. Among all of the buffer conditions assayed using SPR, the results demonstrate that compounds VY-5-173, VY-5-177, and VY-5-178 each bind SAM-bound PRMT5 with the highest affinity denoted by picomolar KDs, slow off-rates, and nanomolar highest starting concentrations. The kinetics and binding behaviors of VY-5-173, VY-5-177, and VY-5-178 closely resemble the binding modes of EPZ015666 as SAM-cooperative compounds; an analogue of EPZ015666 is currently in clinical trials for the treatment of solid tumors and non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma. The widespread influence of Buddhism is due in part to the skill with which a way of liberation was refined by it's teachers and became accessible to people of diverse cultures. In this dynamic series of lectures, Alan Watts takes us on an exploration of Buddhism, from its roots in India to the explosion of interest in Zen and the Tibetan tradition in the West. Watts traces the Indian beginnings of Buddhism, delineates differences between Buddhism and other religions, looks at the radical methods of the Mahayan Buddhist, and reviews the Four Noble Truths and The Eightfold Path Sous le règne d'Henri premier, dit l'oiseleur, un chevalier fuit au coeur de la forêt profonde de Saxe. Olaf, c'est son nom, échange la vie d'un paysan misérable contre une pierre noire que l'homme dit venue du ciel. Cette étrange pierre qui devient brillante plongée dans le feu, accompagne le voyageur tout au long d'une quête qui lui fait rencontrer une ravissante ondine, l'étrange créature des marais, un auroch monstrueux, des villageois crédules qui pour son plus grand malheur le prendront pour un sorcier. Cette trame simple, mais rigoureuse, permet à l'auteur de nous faire respirer les senteurs de la forêt, découvrir ses images insolites, ses secrets, ses habitants, souvent surprenants. Comme il l'avait fait pour l'océan avec Haute Mer, Dimitri utilise les éléments comme véritable héros de son récit. Histoire en un seul volume, L'Hymne à la Forêt entraîne le lecteur dans un voyage initiatique aux côtés d'un personnage simple et misérable au coeur pur. Une bande dessinée pas comme les autres où scénario et dessin réalisent une symbiose parfaite. Postfix is a Mail Transfer Agent (MTA): software that mail servers use to route email.
